News Flash! Sam Pegg is in the House!

Boutique Agency, Scout Me, now under the MMM Umbrella

Scout Me, owned by well-known industry mover and shaker, Sam Pegg, is now a division of MMM.

When Martéz and Sam reconnected after many years at a brainstorming session for a fashion film, it made total sense to these two polar opposite creatives to join forces. With Martez's successful international career, mostly focused on commercial modelling gracing TV screens, Magazines and Billboards worldwide, and Sam's super successful high fashion international modelling career of sought after Magazine Covers and wowing audiences on catwalks in Milan, Paris and New York, it seemed only fitting to combine their knowledge, strengths and experience to serve the industry.

Both have a passion to nurture talent and grow careers and are continuously looking out for innovative approaches to hone skills and educate talent in this vastly competitive arena.

Their passion for film has created an additional platform to showcase their talent and broaden their understanding of the industry.

Their extensive client list is a culmination of strong relationships cultivated through their years in front of the camera and their continued efforts to create more exposure for their talent with newer clients.

"Onwards and upwards" as the saying goes. For these two, the sky's the limit.
